A "Bay Horse Case"

In connection with the "goose case" citation which appeared in the January-February, 1962, issue of Case and Comment, we are indebted to Gerald Rose, Esq., of Chicago, Illinois for the following companion "barnyard case."

In Dorsey v. Kingland, Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, reported in 80 United States Patent Quarterly 186, the court spoke of a "bay horse case," defining this term as: "An expression commonly in use in some jurisdictions to indicate that the case cited and the case being decided are so identical that not only is the ownership of a horse involved in but that both horses were "bay" horses.
